

A Crown for the Polite Elephant

A Crown for the Felle Elephant

First Edition 1983

Story by Zhu Jiadong
Illustrations by Du Jianguo

Printed in the People's Republic of China

A Crown for the Polite Elephant

From China Children's Publishing House

Zhaohua Publishing House Beijing, 1983

One day a little monkey was eating bananas and throwing away the peels over his shoulder. One of the peels landed on the head of a bear.

“What are you doing, little monkey?” growled the bear.

“I do whatever I like,” the monkey rudely replied.

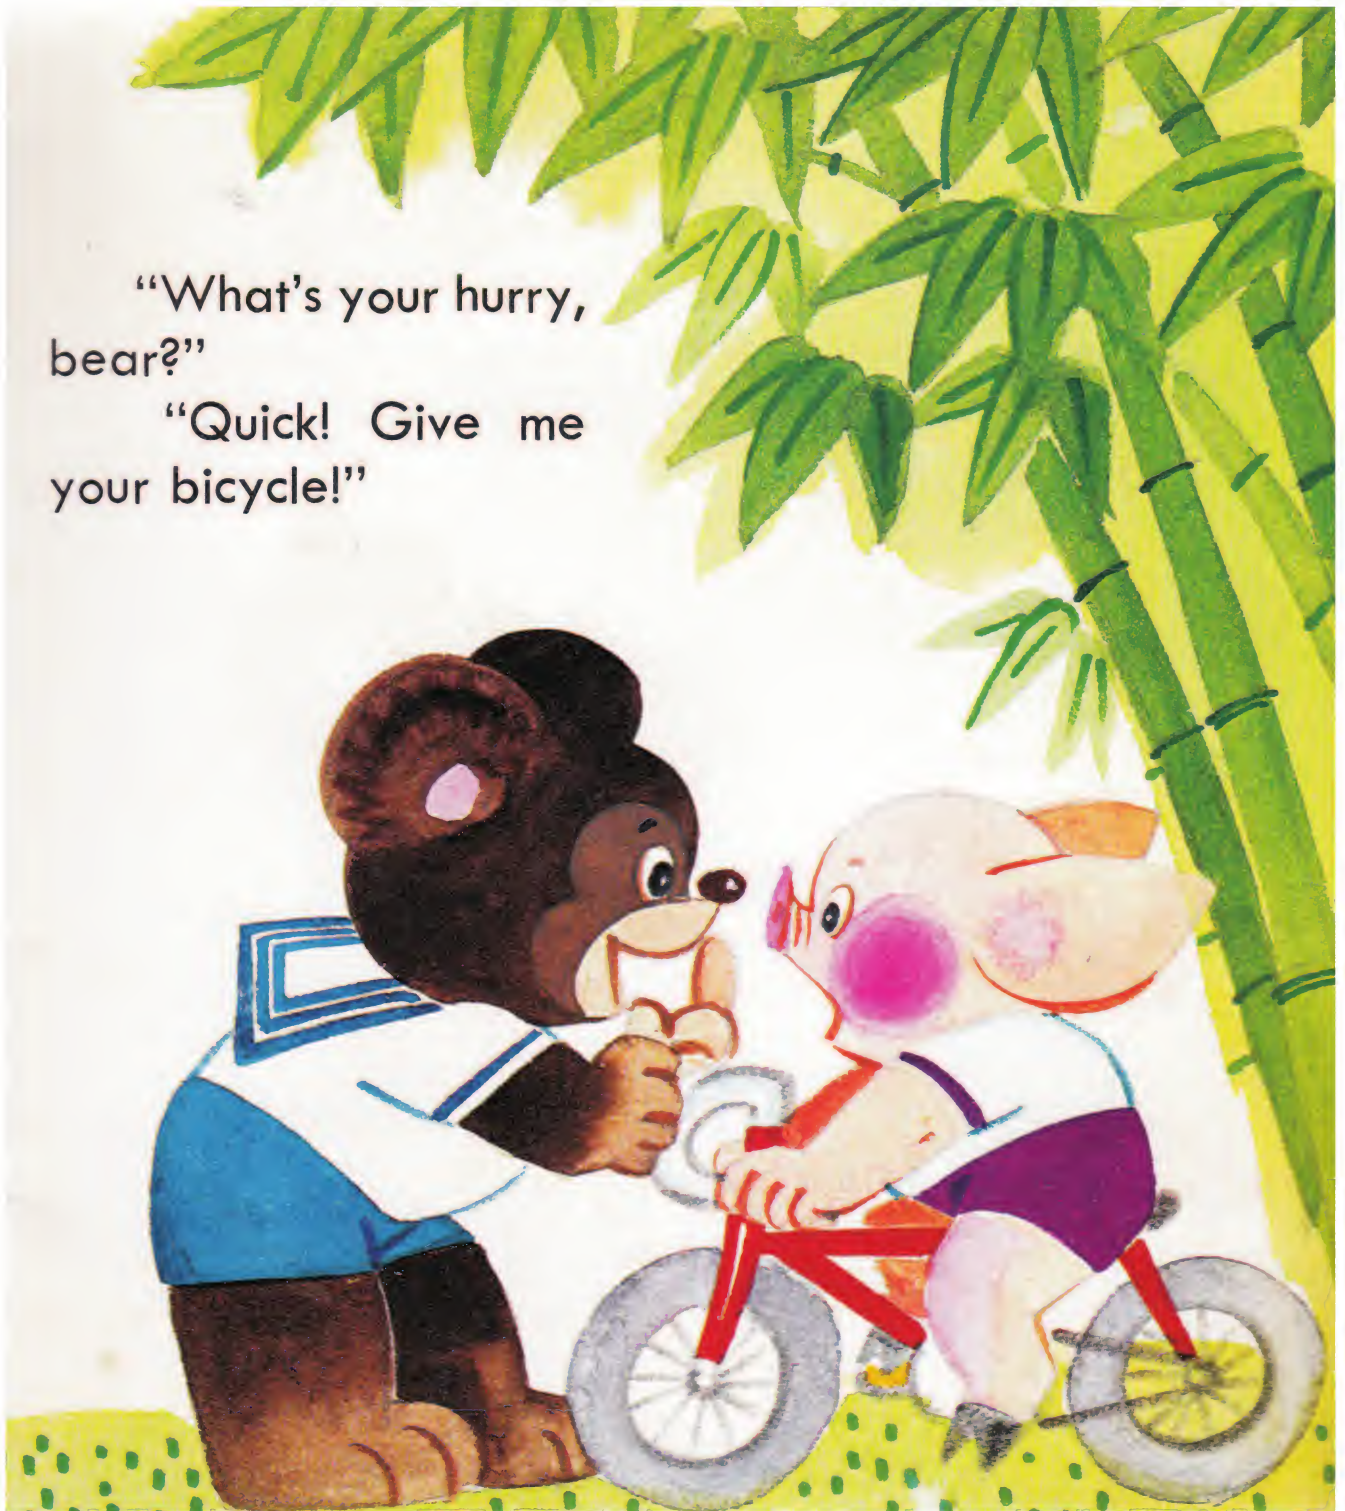

The bear got angry.
He decided to teach the monkey a lesson and began running after him.

On the way he bumped into a little pig.

“What’s your hurry,
bear?”

“Quick! Give me your bicycle!”

The bear snatched the bicycle from the little pig and rode away.

The pig got angry. He decided to teach the bear a lesson and ran after him.

The pig stopped in front of a wooden house. He kicked open the door, "Bang!" The noise startled the elephant who lived there.

The elephant immediately rushed out of the room at the pig's heel.

The elephant ran so fast that sweat began running down his face.

“Kerchoo!” The elephant sneezed. He blew so hard that it felt like a heavy rain to the little monkey who was asleep in the tree.

The elephant hastened to help the little monkey take a bath.

“Brother elephant,” said the little monkey gratefully, “you are so polite to me!”

A colorful illustration of a brown bear and a pink monkey in a forest. The bear, wearing a blue and white striped sailor shirt, is sitting on a log and looking at the monkey. The monkey, wearing a red shirt and a striped shorts, is standing and holding a pink flower. Above them are several clusters of red cherries hanging from green leaves. The background shows a stylized tree trunk and a green hill.

Then the little monkey went to the bear's house and said:
"Brother bear, I'm sorry I was impolite to you just now."

The bear went to the little pig's house and said: "Little pig, I'm sorry I was impolite to you just now."

The little pig went to the elephant's room and said gently: "May I come in?"

“Brother elephant,” said the little pig,
“I was impolite to you just now. It would have been better manners to knock at the door before entering.”

The monkey, the pig and the bear gathered many flowers and made them into a crown for the polite elephant.

花冠送给象哥哥

(英文版)

朱家栋编 杜建国画

出版者：朝华出版社

(中国国际书店出版机构)

中国北京车公庄西路21号

印刷者：外文印刷厂

中国北京车公庄西路15号

发行者：中国国际书店

中国北京第399号信箱

编号：R 8·297—20 (英) 1983年第一版

00200 (精) 00110 (平)

88E—233

